SIR,

I have the honor to state that the present class in the Police Training School which Consists of recruits and men in service was started in February 1897 and the period of its duration Viz: 6 to 8 months as reported in my letter No. 1279/37 of the 12th October 1893 expires on the 30th September 1897. The School Inspector had been engaged for some time on special duty in Connection with the Nelamangala murder

Case. The Inspector and the students had also been employed on duty Connected with the Diamond Jubilee Celebrations at Bangalore. The Resident's visit to the Police Training School also threw additional work on the Inspector as well as the students. Owing to these circumstances, the progress of the students was retarded and the Course could not be Completed within the prescribed period.

2. It is therefore necessary to extend the duration of the class to the end of November when the examination will be held and the men in service returned to their respective places. I beg therefore that the Comptroller may be authorized to pass the pay of the men in service till the end of November 1897.

I have the honor to be,
Sir
